New partnership announced by IOP and the Royal Swedish Academy of Sciences

Beginning January 2006, Institute of Physics Publishing (IOP) and the Royal Swedish Academy of Sciences, will jointly take responsibility for publishing the journal Physica Scripta.

Launched in 1970, Physica Scripta is an authoritative international journal for experimental and theoretical physics published on behalf of the Academies of Sciences and the Physical Societies of the Nordic countries. The broad scope of the journal encompasses strong components of Atomic, Molecular and Optical Physics, Plasma Physics, Condensed Matter Physics and Mathematical Physics.

The submissions and the peer review process will continue to be managed by the Royal Swedish Academy of Sciences, whilst publication, distribution, subscription fulfilment, sales and marketing of the journal in print and electronic form are now the responsibility of IOP.

IOP assumes publication responsibility for Physica Scripta from January 2006. The journal will continue to be published monthly and the renowned programme of topical issues will continue unchanged. Topical issues will continue to be available online and delivered to subscribers in CD-ROM format in 2006 at no extra charge.
